'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

For newspapermen and laymen, one of the best books we have read for some time is "You Can't Print That," which was written by George Seldes, a famous news writer.

* * * *

Seldes discusses all problems of the various countries of the world. And he treats them in such manner that one actually understands them.

* * * *

In the first chapter of the book he tells of how he and three other war correspondents entered Germany immediately after the Armistice and interviewed General Von Hindenburg.

* * * *

And that famous German leader made a statement that was never published in any newspaper.

* * * *

He said: "The American Doughboys won the World war."

* * * *

When the reporters returned to the Allied army to file their "scoop" they were placed under arrest by American army officers and were forbidden to send their story.

* * * *

A personage to whom he devotes a complete chapter is Mussolini, the Dictator of Italy.

* * * *

And in this chapter he publishes revelations that no newspaper would dare publish.

* * * *

There's a certain motor patrolman in Richmond who needs a set of new tires or a luck charm.

* * * *

The other night the officer started to work and a tire went flat on him.

* * * *

He fixed it, saying words he never would have said when in a calmer mood.

* * * *

But his troubles weren't over for the evening. Between 12 o'clock at night and eight o'clock in the morning he had exactly five flat tires.

* * * *

Which, to him, must have been all very, very disgusting.

Late tonight rescue crews were trying to penetrate the mass of wreckage 800 feet below the earth's surface to recover 8 bodies. Four bodies were brought out by the first crews to enter the tunnel after an explosion had rocked the country for miles around.

BARREL HOUSE WINS FIRST CONTEST

What promised to be a victory for the hard-playing Refinery boys was transformed into a triumph for the Barrel House yesterday afternoon at First street. The final score was six to four in favor of the Barrel House.

The Refinery aggregation was king of the First street diamond yesterday afternoon during the first five innings.

Deardoff and Bertoli crossed home plate in the second period for the Refinery during a lapse on the part of the Barrel House infielders. The Barrel House went scoreless under the sensational chucking of Frank Peacock until the fourth, when Fitzgerald wham med the ball over the right field fence.

In the sixth period, the Barrel House broke loose from the bonds of Peacock's pitching, and went into a two run lead, Fitzgerald, Cola, and Gillan scoring. Matteri and Fitzgerald added two more counters to the Barrel House's increasing total in the seventh. By this time the fans began to shift toward the gate under the delusion that the game would end very shortly.

But the Refinery boys were determined not to lost without a struggle. With Armentrout on base and two men out, Peacock proceeded to collect a double and Lamarra slammed out a single to add two runs to the Refinery's total. But the Refinery was unable to bridge the gap, and the Barrel House went farther into the lead in Standard Oil Twilight league competition.

SINGER BEATS MANDELL FOR TITLE

YANKEE STADIUM, N. Y., July 17.—UP—The lightweight championship of the world changed hands in record time tonight, when Al Singer of the Bronx knocked out Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., four years the title holder, in one minute and 46 seconds of the first round before a crowd of 35,000 startled and screaming fight fans in Yankee stadium.

Started on his downward way by a savage left hook to the jaw before they hardly had time to square off, Mandell went down five times in that exciting first round before he took the final count, flat on his back, eyes glazed, looking up at the blazing K'eig lights for the first time in his career.

Singer followed up that first left hook with a shower of rights and lefts to the jaw as Sammy staggered to his feet. The Bronx lad, a 7 to 5 favorite in the betting, dropped Mandell for counts of two, seven one, two and then for the final fatal "ten."

No Chance

After that first left hook sent him to the ring floor Mandell never had a chance.

All his ring cleverness, the experience of ten years in the game, availed him naught, for Singer leaped in with the confidence of victorious youth, and made short work of the champion.

Although he has been in the ring only three years, Singer did not lose his head as he saw Mandell was at his mercy.

Driving with two piston-like fists Singer sent his dazed opponent staggering around the ring and against the ropes.

Champ Helpless

Mandell was helpless, his hands hanging by his sides, but he made a game effort to go on. Finally Singer caught the champion right where he wanted him, and shot home a left hook and a right cross.

Mandell went down like a log his last time, hitting the ring floor with a thud. He was completely out, and had to be carried to his corner.

The fighters had barely begun to feel each other out, sparring cautiously and stepping around in the center of the ring, when Singer's left shot out and Mandell went down. There was no actual count over the first knockdown, so unexpectedly did it occur.

Sorry Mess

From then on it was a sorry spectacle. Mandell, unable to fight back, stayed on his feet as long as he could, struggling up after each successive knockdown, until the K. O. punch finally got him.

Singer had brought the lightweight championship back to New York city, where Benny Leonard defended it so well until his retirement were at the affair tonight.

Sammy Mandell won the title from Rocky Kansas in Chicago in 1926 and defended it only three times, defeating Jimmy McLarnin, Phil McGraw and Tony Canzoneri.

35,000 Present

The beaten champion had great difficulty in making the lightweight limit, having to "bake out" for hours before weighing in. But this could not account entirely for the amazing outcome of what promised to be a fast and fairly even title bout.

Singer weighed 133 1-2 to the champ's 134 1-2.

Approximately 35,000 spectators ment undefeated in 1924.

NET CUP TEAM READY FOR CONTEST

NEW YORK, July 17.—UP—America's youthful Davis cup team prepared today to meet Italy in the 1930 interzone finals without the aid of three of tennis's brilliant internationalists—William T. Tilden II, William Johnson and Francis T. Hunter, who played the major roles in the U. S. Davis cup record of the past decade.

Tilden, who teamed with Johnson to retain the international supremacy for seven years, will be present when the matches open at Roland Garos stadium, Auteuil, France, tomorrow, but only in the role of coach and advisor. Hunter, the veteran of three Davis cup campaigns, and Johnson have retired from international play.

With the famous triumvirate off the squad, America's hopes were centered on Wilmer Lott and Johnny Doeg. Allison, Van Ryan and Lott saw action in the Davis cup challenge round last year and Lott played in the interzone competition in 1928, but Doeg will be making his first appearance in European Davis cup play.

The American team is regarded as an almost certain winner over Italy and the matches held interest chiefly as a test of the United States' prospects in the challenge round with France.

Baron H. L. Demorpurgo, and Eorgio de Stefani are certain to represent Italy in the singles with Placido Gaslini and either Demorpurgo or Del Bono teaming for the doubles.

While Tilden is definitely out of the inter-zone matches, there still is a possibility that he may join the American team for the play against Italy because of a contract to report the Davis cup matches for a newspaper syndicate. The United States Lawn Tennis association prohibits players from writing about matches in which they engage, without special permission.

If the Latin-American series indicates the United States' chances against France depend upon Tilden's presence on the team, it is virtually certain that the Philadelphian will cancel his writing contract or that the U. S. L. T. A. will waive the player-writer rule.

Oaks Defeated By Angels In Extra Innings

FINAL PLANS MADE FOR OUTBOARD MOTOR RACES

Approved by the Northern California Outboard Motor association and sanctioned by the American Powerboat association, the first outboard motor regatta to be held on the Richmond inner harbor will be run off Sunday morning and afternoon.

Sportsmen, including several record holders, from all sections of northern California have signified their intentions of entering the races on the local waterfront. Entries in the competition have been signed by outboard enthusiasts from Stockton, Sacramento, Isleton, Marysville, St. Helena, Napa, Vallejo, San Jose, Watsonville, San Francisco, Alameda, Oakland, Santa Rosa, Petaluma and Richmond.

Sunday's program will start with mile trials from seven to 10 o'clock in which world records are expected to be broken. Racing events will be held continuously from 10:20 to 4:20 o'clock. Competition in classes A. B. C. and E. will be held from 10:20 to 2:30 o'clock. Runabout races will then occupy the remainder of the afternoon. The first runabout event will be for divisions one and two. The second event will be for division four, and will be run on a two and one-half mile course surveyed by Edward Hoffman, Richmond City Engineer, and approved by the American Powerboat association in San Francisco.

Members of the Richmond Outboard Motor club have been industriously laying and executing plans for Sunday's event of events. They have received valuable cooperation from the Richmond engineering commission, directed by Edward Hoffman, and the local Bell Telephone company. Thirteen buoys have been placed in the bay a mile apart, while a telephone line has been laid between the clubhouse and the channel for the aid of judges and scorers.

According to Tony Alameda, commodore of the Northern California Outboard association, who will direct Sunday's program, spectators will be able to see the events better by going down Tenth street to the Parr Terminal. The competitors are requested to go to the clubhouse at the foot of Eighth street to enlist in the various events.

Sunday's regatta is the first event of its kind ever held on the local harbor, and it expected to draw sport enthusiasts from all parts of northern California to witness the races.

It is believed that in the future Richmond will become the center for all outboard activities in the state.

A two-day regatta will also be held here August 24, to decide the winners of northern California. The victors in the local regatta will then participate in the western states finals on Lake Merritt in Oakland. Sixty boats may take part in the Oakland races. The state champions will compete for national honors at Middletown, Conn.

Larkspur Is Favorite In Arlington Race

CHICAGO, July 17.—UP—Odds on Blue Larkspur to win the Arlington Park $35,000 cup race Saturday lengthened today with the withdrawal of Gallant Fox, king of the 1930 three-year olds, because of sulkiness.

Indications that Blue Larkspur, junior champion of last year, would be the favorite at post time were seen after the animal negotiated a mile and a quarter trial heat in 2:04 3-5 faster than many races of that distance are run. Rumors also were heard that Misstep might be withdrawn.

Victory for Gallant Fox in the Arlington cup race would have established him as a claimant for 1930 By wining the chief races for three-year-olds, the Fox already has gained recognition as champion of that class.

Gallant Fox has won nearly $300,000 this year and the $35,000 Arlington cup purse would have made him the leading money winner of all time.

N. California Elks League To Open Soon

The Northern California Elks league of 1930 will go into action July 2, according to George Shaw, manager of the local Elk's nine.

Richmond will play its' first game at the local First street diamond against the San Francisco Antlers. The second contest will also be held here, with the Alamedans as the visiting team. Richmond will play it's third game here against the Oakland aggregation.

All league games will be played on Sundays this seasoon.

A likely bunch of athletes have been whipped into first class shape by George Shaw, and they should give a tough battle for northern California honors in this year's inter-lodge competition.

In last year's league, Richmond participated in the league finals, and it is the belief of the local boys that they will again be able to repeat this feat.

ROD LA ROCQUE HAS FLASHY ROLE

Rod La Rocque, who plays a suave, picturesque "bad man" in Radio Pictures' "Beau Bandit," opening tomorrow at the Fox-California theater, has become famous in Hollywood for his dialectic ability.

In both "Beau Bandit" and "The Delightful Rogue," his previous RKO production, his parts demanded broken English of the Latin-American type. Although La Rocque is a native-born American, he mastered the dialect with little difficulty.

The formula, according to the picture star, is: "Latinize the vowels. Accent the syllables following the one accented in English. Color your remarks with a few 'Esta Buenos,' "Senors" and "Senoritas" and punctuate often with shoulder shrugs and gestures."

The line, "The draw is very important, Senor Perkins," becomes "The draw ces veree importont, Senor Perkeens. Esta bueno!"

Strangely enough, Mitchell Lewis who plays in practically every scene with La Rocque, and is represented as the same racial type did not have to learn a line of dialect. For Lewis, in "Beau Bandit" is one talking picture actor who doesn't talk. His role is that of a vicious Mexican deaf mute and he does not deliver a line of dialogue. His pantomime and "business," however, are said to be exacting and eloquent.

Doris Kenyon plays the leading feminine role and sings for the first time in films. Miss Kenyon, during the past two years, has achieved sensational success on the concert stage in the east. The song is "Just a Little Kiss," composed by Harry Tierney, of "Rio Rita" fame.

Other members of the cast in this all-talking outdoor thriller are Walter Long, Charles Middleton, George Duryea and a number of western rodeo champions.

Also on the program is a Charlie Chase comedy entitled, "Whispering Whoopee."

GOLDEN CALF TO END RUN TODAY

Superlative entertainment is offered by "The Golden Calf" Fox Movietone comedy with music, which closes today at the Fox-California theater.

Tuneful melodies, 100 beautiful dancers, a romantic story and plenty of comedy and an all-star cast of principals guarantees this latest product of the Fox Studios as entertainment that will appeal to all classes.

The story is laid in Greenwich village. Jack Mulhall is an advertising artist in search of a model with perfect legs to pose for a hosiery advertisement, which is to bring him fame and fortune. Sue Carol, seen at first as his prim, old-maidish secretary, discovers sue had the perfect measurements but has to transform herself into a beautiful, dashing model with loads of "it", before she can convince Mulhall of her good qualities. He is completely deceived by the metamorphosis in his erstwhile prim stenographer and does not discover she is the beautiful model until just before the final fadeout.

BLAST VICTIM HUNTED BY CREWS

dead, we came up again until proper equipment had arrived."

One man who was in the shaft leading to the underground bore was badly burned but escaped. He was Dan Tarana, who was in charge of the elevator.

In the west end of the tunnel, 21 miners were knocked down by the force of the explosion but escaped without serious injuries.

No Gas Masks

There were two gas masks at Camp Mitchell, McDougall said, and more equipment had to be demanded from Camp Thomas, six miles away.

Two theories as to the cause of the blast were given, it was rumored without official confirmation, that a shaft lift had collapsed Tuesday, causing the death of John Dolan, its operator, and scattering a quantity of explosives in the bottom after an 800 foot drop. Some believed this powder might have been ignited. Others blamed the disaster to natural gas being set off.

On June 9, seven men were killed by a similar blast in Calaveras tunnel, another San Francisco water project. Last Monday five miners were burned to death by a fire in the Glenn Placer mine south of Colfax.

The men who were killed in the Mitchell tunnel had been sent down to bolster frame work of the tunnel.

LEGGE DEFENDS ACTION OF BOARD

FARGO, N. D., July 17 (UP)—Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, braved the heat of a typical North Dakota summer fair today to defend the board's grain marketing program against widespread criticism.

The critics, Legge told several thousand perspiring wheat growers, who gathered at the fair grounds from all over the state, are not so much interested in helping the farmers as they are in protecting their own interests.

"One of the surpluses that has given us the most trouble has been that of farm leaders," he said. "This surplus is not confined to any one section."

Must Co-operate

If the farm board is to function as it should, he continued, the farmers themselves must co-operate, and the various cooperative groups, they too must work together.

"Thoroughly organized, farmers will be in position to adjust production to the potential demand and to engage in effective merchandising of their crops," he said. "Unless farmers are willing to get together and adopt business methods now employed in other lines there is scant hope of them bettering their financial standing."

Legge then explained in detail the organization of the farm board and its support of co-operative organizations in almost all agricultural products. In connection with grain, he said, the farm board is attempting to:

Plan Told

"Bring about equality for grain growers in comparison with other industries by limiting speculation, minimizing inefficiency and waste in distribution, effecting organized effort among growers and measurably preventing and controlling surpluses."

"Preventing and controlling surpluses" whereby farm board executives have preached the gospel of smaller production, has been the principal action of the board hit by his critics. In defending the board's position, Legge said:

Adjust Output

"The farm board is convinced that agriculture will never be on a profitable basis until farmers, like those in other industries, adjust their output, quantity and quality as well, to potential market requirements. With six and one half million farm units producing blindly this cannot be accomplished.

"In the case of wheat the farm board is recommending that production be adjusted as nearly as possible to a domestic market basis through a gradual reduction in acreage. We are doing this because we do not believe the world offers a profitable price to the American grower."

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

A Woman's Memories of Conan Doyle

"LOVE bridges the chasm."

So Sir Oliver Lodge once summed up for us the logic and the impelling force behind the spiritualistic communications in which he is a firm believer. We remembered the words, reading of how the widow of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is in hourly expectation, since his death three days ago, of the message which he promised to send her from the future world. Without following either Lodge or Doyle all the way in their acceptance of spiritualism, a woman may believe that, if love ever bridges the chasm between two worlds, the love of Sir Conan for the bonnie Jean he married twenty-two years ago will be "stronger than death."

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

We met the two on several occasions, liked them both enormously, and received from them a quickened faith in lastingly happy marriage. We have not the slightest doubt that the account of his father's passing given by Adrian Conan Doyle is as authentic as it is appealing.

"My mother's and father's devotion to each other at all times was one of the most wonderful things I have ever known," the young man said simply. "She nursed him right through his illness to the end. His last words were to her and they show how much he thought of her. He simply smiled up at her and said: 'You are wonderful.'"

HE WOULD say it, the gallant gentleman and great lover, who created not only the world's master detective, Sherlock Holmes, but that "very parfit gentil knight" of fiction, Sir Nigel.

The first time we saw Sir Conan and Lady Doyle was in New York in the spring of 1914, just before the war. They had been married six years and she left three small Doyles at home in order to accompany her broad-shouldered, blond, breezy husband on a Canadian camping trip. He seemed to us from the first glance a Newfoundland dog sort of man—big and gentle and intelligent. She was slender, pink-cheeked, charmingly vivacious, most attractively dressed.

We said as much in our first interview with the pair for The Evening World. It was about militant suffragettes, and Sir Conan was divided between a typical Britisher's distaste for what seemed to him the hysteria of the movement, and a personal and chivalrous indignation against "the fool of a man" who had quoted him in another interview as recommending that suffragettes be lynched.

"I never said such a thing!" he exploded. "An Englishman doesn't want to hurt a woman. On the other hand, a woman can never get anything out of a man if she tries to bully him. I am not opposed to woman's development. I like to see a woman with brains who uses them. I love and honor women as wives and mothers. But I cannot approve of a campaign of destruction."

It was for us an interesting interview, but something even more interesting came later. Sir Conan wrote to thank us "for your just and kind report," and added, "but what I want particularly to thank you for are the charming things you said about my wife."

Never before or since has any married celebrity made that especial acknowledgment to us—and we've said "charming things" about the wives of many!

A WEEK later Sir Conan and Lady Doyle were again characteristically kind, besides being excellent copy. We had an assignment to ask them about their first trip to Coney Island. We went to the Plaza, where they were stopping, and did a Casablanca imitation, waiting in the hotel lobby from 6.30 P. M. to 12.30 A. M.—on Sunday, too, supposedly our day off.

Then two weary Doyles just back from Coney walked through the revolving doors to the elevator. An equally weary interviewer tagged them with an apology for approach at such an awful hour, but with a frank admission of what we wanted and of how long we had waited for it.

They were all regretful concern, and made us come at once to their suite. Lady Doyle, without even stopping to remove her hat, dropped down beside us, on a rose-upholstered sofa, and talked as gayly as an unfagged school-girl about the lights, the slides, the barkers of Coney Island. Her big and famous husband listened and looked on, with a frankly adoring smile.

Both of them must have been "dead on their feet," yet they could take time and energy at that hour in the morning to help a woman and a comparative stranger to do her job. Nor was there a hint of strain in their graciousness.

THE last time we met Sir Conan was in 1922, when he had come to tell the United States about his faith in survival after death and in the power of the dead to communicate with the living.

He was still broad-shouldered and kindly, his Celtic voice still mellow. Again it was the essential humanity of the man, his frank and unashamed love—in this case for Kingsley, the son of his first marriage, who was killed in the war—that gripped one's heart.

"What is the one proof of all others which has done most to convince you that the spirit survives?" we asked him.

"My son," he answered simply. "I have seen him. I have talked to him. He has placed his hands on my shoulders. AND I KNOW!"

We could only remember the immortal cry of fatherhood: "For this my son was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found."

And, as we wrote at the time, we could feel glad that this father of one of the Great War's toll of heroes—that many other fathers—found some measure of consolation in their belief that their sons live and do not forget.

Lady Doyle shared ardently in her husband's spiritualistic beliefs; they stood together in this as in everything else. It must have been the consciousness of their perfect oneness which shone in Conan Doyle's blue eyes when, during this last interview, he spoke of heaven for the happily wed.

"There is no physical love, no childbirth," he explained earnestly, "but the husband and wife truly mated preserve a wonderful union in the heavenly world."

Whether Conan Doyle were right or wrong about married love in heaven, he and his wife gave years of shining confirmation to the reality of such love on earth.

"DAD, why is this bird called a canary?"

"Because it originated in the Canary Islands, so although it's a finch it is called a canary."

"Were the Canary Islands named after the birds?"

"No, son, the birds were named after the islands."

"What are the Canary Islands named for?"

"For dogs. You see, in Latin, 'dog' is 'canis,' and the elder Pliny, a Roman historian, says that the islands were called Canaria, 'from the multitude of dogs of great size,' which King Juba of Mauretania found on the islands when he visited them about forty years B. C. In later years, 'Canaria' became 'Canary'."

'Canaria' became 'Canary'."

"Oh, go to bed."

This week marks the arrival of the first big shipment of Bartlett pears to our markets. The early pears were of the hard variety and suitable only for cooking, but the ones available now are delicious raw. Lavish as the array of fresh fruits in our markets the past few weeks has been, a new addition is always welcome.

KAREN HOLLIS

A summer salad of pears is particularly good when the mild flavor is made more piquant with the addition of lime juice and ginger. Everyone knows how vastly stewed pears are improved by the addition of a piece of whole ginger to the water in which they are cooked, but how many have found that the addition of preserved or crystallized ginger to salads of raw pears is equally effective?

BARTLETT PEAR SALAD

(Four servings)

4 pears
1 cake cream cheese
¼ cup raisins
1 tablespoon cream
2 tablespoons preserved or crystallized ginger
Lettuce
½ cup mayonnaise or French dressing
2 tablespoons lime juice

Soak the raisins in one-half cup of hot water until they puff slightly. Drain and dry, then add them to the cream cheese, which has been softened with cream. Pare and core the pears and heap the cream cheese mixture in the centre cavity. Chop the crystallized or preserved ginger very fine and sprinkle it over the pears. Put them in the icebox to chill thoroughly. Just before ready to serve beat the limejuice into French or mayonnaise dressing. Arrange the pears on lettuce leaves, allowing two halves to each plate, and add the dressing.

Refurbishing the Bedroom and Breakfast Nook

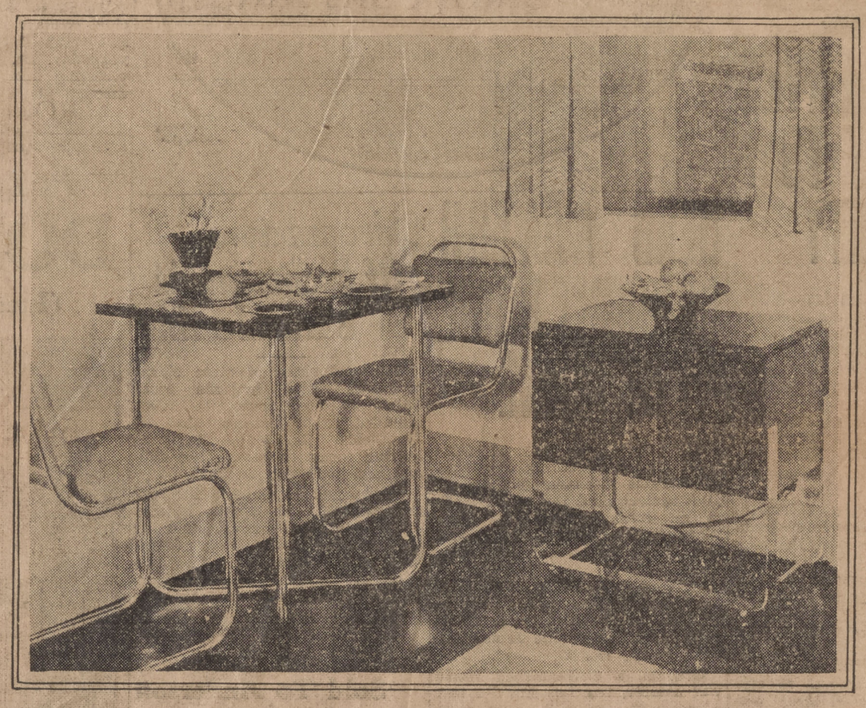
By Alma Zaiss



IN THIS SMART SCHEME THE SMALL AND COMPACT RADIO MAKES ITSELF DOUBLY USEFUL

Dear Miss Zaiss: Can you please advise me as to redecorating my bedroom? I have a bed, dresser and chifforobe in the French period. As it is rather shabby after eight years' use, I thought that a new finish and separate mirror over the dresser would make a new set of it. I would like to add a night table or commode. By the way, I expect to have the work done by an expert in the line, so please tell me what color to use, as I have two-tone rose drapes and spread that I would like to continue using. Also, just what kind of rug can I use? I would like to make these purchases during the summer at sale prices. What color should I have the walls and woodwork to harmonize with the furniture and drapes?

Next comes my kitchen (apartment house style, long). At one end I have my stove, dish closets, refrigerator, and at the other end a nice space that I would love to make look just a little different from ones I am accustomed to seeing. You see I have a dining room, so I do not entertain in it. It has a lovely large window. I do love a nice bench covered with chintz, or should I use chairs? Please enlighten me as to what color I should have my kitchen painted. The walls of the nook part are not paneled. What kind of curtains? You will make this a most pleasant summer with your kind help.

Few Changes Needed in Order to Complete These Rooms

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

OF late we have been so busy buying new furniture and making and hanging new curtains for inquirers that problems which concern refinishing and completing old schemes have seemed to fall by the wayside. Mrs. K.'s letter reminds us sharply of our dereliction, and we hasten to round out for her two schemes that will bring both change and beauty to the partly furnished bedroom and breakfast nook.

In the order of her questions: Several pleasing schemes for the bedroom may be planned around the repainted furniture, two-tone draperies and spread. (We are glad to note that the painting will be done by an expert. Too often home-made finishes are poorly applied and the last state of the redecorated furniture is worse than the first!) Sketching briefly three good color combinations, Mrs. K. may have walls and woodwork in two tones of ivory, softly antiqued; a dull reseda green carpet; furniture refinished in pale, soft green, antiqued, with just a hint of dull gold brushed into turns and flutings; overcurtains and spread of the two-toned rose fabric; glass curtains of pale flesh-tinted voile; a boudoir chair or chaise longue upholstered in brocade having a pattern that shows rose, pale gold and green; a side chair or bench seat in deep rose moire; cushions in shades of ivory, pale rose and green.

Or she may have walls in two tones of soft Venetian green and furniture

INCOMPLETE FLOOR PLAN SUBMITTED BY MRS. K.

READERS—Please note Paragraphs "*" and the table a top of shiny black glass.

In the photograph a small and compact radio provides morning music and performs as a serving table too. (A very clever model, this cabinet, which, if not wanted in the alcove, can be used as an end table beside the davenport or easy chair in the living room.) If Mrs. K. does not care for the radio suggestion, she may place a set of shallow stepped shelves against the wall and use them as a fascinating service rack for plates, glasses, fruit, the water pitcher and so on. These can be bought unpainted in several of the department stores and given a coat of red lacquer at home.

On the question of arrangement, it would seem that a generous kitchen table should go against the end wall of the kitchen, and it would be nice to hang over it a little red lacquered shelf to hold crocks, gay dishes and the cookery books. According to Mrs. K.'s plan, we should place the breakfast table before the window in the dinette section, the service shelves against the wall to the left of the entrance, and use a screen of Japanese wood blocks or silver tea-paper between the kitchen and dining end of the room.

This means to answer all questions asked for both rooms, and we sincerely hope that the suggestions will give as much pleasure as Mrs. K. anticipates to the summer hours spent indoors. It is most gratifying to find that in spite of warm weather—always a legitimate excuse for dodging extra work—our readers seem as eager as ever to plan for more beauty and comfort within the home.

finished in antique ivory, using the same curtains, spread and upholstering for chairs. A third and perhaps more delicate combination could be achieved with walls and woodwork in tones of ivory, panel mouldings brushed with dull gold; a pale brownish-beige carpet; old ivory furniture; rose curtains and spread; for the chaise longue a brocade carrying dominant notes of reseda green or French blue with rose and gold; chair seat in green or French blue moire; cushions in pastel colors.

It will doubtless improve the dresser to give it a separate mirror, as Mrs. K. suggests. But for the sake of balance and convenience, if a double bed occupies the centre of an important wall, it should have two small night tables or small commodes instead of one. If twin beds are used, one commode or table may be placed between the beds.

Lamps should be very dainty, but simple, with shades of pale rose or beige silk bound with plain contrasting color. A lovely French print would be appropriate for the wall space above the bed, and a screen covered with old French wall paper (or a reproduction) could be used to break the line of the two closet doors.

It is impossible to give a good arrangement for this problem, because the original diagrams give no dimensions. How can we tell where large bedroom pieces will fit best on such a plan; whether the chiffonrobe or dresser would be the better piece for the entrance wall; or if there will be room to walk to and fro between the bed and a large piece of furniture placed on the opposite wall?

As nearly as we can tell from Mrs. K.'s plan, the bed and night tables should occupy the centre of the space we have marked 1; the dresser, space 2; chifforobe, 3; chaise or chair, 4; side chair, 5. Aside from these tentative suggestions no final arrangement will be attempted. Instead we publish the inadequate floor plans with the warning to readers that henceforth "No dimensions—no diagrams of rearranagement." You see, if Mrs. K. had given room measurements, even these roughly drawn plans would have been sufficient to guide us in making a scaled diagram showing each piece of furniture in its best position.

NOW we come to the kitchen and the litle breakfast nook. How big is that nook? Is it large enough to accommodate a four-place table, or only a tea-for-two?. Since something different from the usual dinette equipment is wanted, we have looked to the modern for inspiration, and suggest a smart scheme in red, beige, silvery-gray and black.

Following the suggestion of the picture, Mrs. K. might have walls painted a pale, creamy gray and woodwork just a tone darker. Black marbleized linoleum would make a nice foundation for a black and beige rug of washable chenille. Glass curtains could be of a simple modern fabric in a zigzag pattern of red and beige; a table and chairs of modern silvered metal are suggested, the chairs to have red fabrikoid seat pads

Flowers as a Cure

By Catherine Wood

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

EVERY ONE loves flowers, but not every one knows how to care for them, and comparatively few among those who adore having them around the house know how to arrange them to advantage. Fewer still realize that flowers—certain flowers—have a medicinal or temperamental effect upon people.

If you believe what the scientists say, "Every whiff of a flower's natural perfume lengthens life" and whether true or false, and however generally it may or may not apply, it is a fact that the perfume of natural flowers has a sure effect upon one's thoughts and emotions, as potently and as importantly as sounds and colors.

This effect does, indubitably, react upon the nerves and so, naturally, the theory that a remedial result is obtainable by inhalation of certain scents from the flowers in their natural state is worth testing.

So the next time you are suffering from a sick headache, hie you to the florists for a bunch of roses, or, as this is rare time, you may be able to gather them yourself—at any rate, acquire them, and breathe deeply of their perfume. But, mind you, get the delicate roses, say, for instance, the tea rose, or the Lady May, or a cluster of ramblers, which grow so prolifically in all country places. Of these species, while their scent is delicate, it is definite, which seems to be the requirement.

For nervousness there are poppies. They can hardly fail to cast their spell over you. It isn't necessary even to inhale them. Merely to be in the room with them is a curative, so 'tis said, and any one afflicted with "nerves" is bound to agree that it is worth a trial to verify the scientists' findings.

Perhaps your system is run down. Perhaps you are just generally debilitated and feel like nothing at all. Well, for that state there are lilies of the valley. Inhale their swaying, surging perfume at intervals of an hour or so. Their effect is tonic.

For a nervous headache, a headache sans nausea, try violets. Bury your face in a heavy bunch of them and, presto, into nothingness vanishes the devastating headache, leaving you fresh and refreshed.

We all know that spring odors have a peculiarly recuperative effect—the clove, the pink jasmine, bergamot, orange-flowers and certain roses. You have only to sniff these to feel at once a hint of their strengthening qualities, just as you know the refreshing effects of breathing in pine, spruce, hemlock or cedar, the laden air of woods.

But not all flowers have this revivifying effect. Heavy scented blossoms like the tuberose, magnolia, the calla lily and certain others have, contrarily, a depressing effect upon most persons, and such flowers should, of course, be shunned, particularly by persons whose natural disposition is not of the happiest.

TELLING THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

ON EVERY CORNER LOT

"DON'T sell America short" is right! Every vacant lot is a potential golf course now. Millions of persons who were once unemployed are now working overtime at 50 cents an hour trying to push a little white pill up a board in par four. Those pee-wee pleasure pastures did it.

Not since the seventeen-year locusts paid their last call has anything enveloped America like the Tom Thumb country clubs. Heretofore, the paraphernalia of a crap game was the only thing you could carry in your vest pocket. But when some genius thought of compressing eighteen tough holes and 700 acres of landscape into a vacant lot, he had a real idea.

The demand for pee-wee golf courses is so great that they will be blasting filling stations off street corners to make way for them next. The only thing we can't understand is how Henry Ford didn't happen to think of it first.

And the miniature courses will just about rehabilitate the Republican Party. When Hoover stepped into the President's chair there were 3,000,000 golfers in this country. To-day 40,000,000 Americans are shooting golf on excelsior that has been dyed green to look like grass. Prosperity statistics like those put that stock market nose dive in the shade.

Daddy, who used to get up at 5 A. M. Sunday morning to be sure of teeing off on the municipal course, now stays up till long after midnight to get in eighteen holes a couple of blocks up the line. It is worse than the old corner saloon.

"Father, dear father, come home with me now," whines little Ella. "The clock in the steeple strikes twelve."

"Keep your blamed mouth shut," replies father, "or I will miss this next putt."

"Father, dear father, please come home," pleads tiny Ella again.

"Just one more round," shouts the head of the family. "I think I can make it in 72 this time."

How can you combat a blight like that?

From Sandy Hook to San Diego, America has broken out like a smallpox rash with pint-size golf courses. By September you can have Sears-Roebuck ship you your own private links by parcel post.

Already, due to this sudden craze, unoccupied real estate has risen 50 per cent. and profanity has more than trebled.

We don't know what genius devised this collapsible golf course. But any one who can condense three miles of fairways and 80,000 cubic feet of sand traps to fit into a vacant lot can frame it so the international yacht races can be held in your bathtub.

Six months ago a vacant lot had no future except as a dump. To-day every unoccupied plot in each city is a golf links, just as every Chicago street is a shooting gallery. And if folks can be interested in playing golf on side streets under electric lights, they can be coaxed to try open-air bowling alleys, too. That is something to worry about.

There are no limits this miniature racket may not reach. If you can kid a customer that green excelsior pasted on a slab is a fairway, then you can tap him for 50 cents more and make him think a row of ant hills is a trip through the Rocky Mountains.

And we would like to bet that parlor football comes back with a bang in the fall.

School nurse says all girls should know this
TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

CLAIM JUMPER WILL FACE FIGHT

LOS ANGELES, July 17. UP— A dpeuty United States marshal, three women mine owners and a stage full of guards and workmen left here tonight for an isolated region of Inyo county, where the women declare armed men are interfering in attempts to assess mining properties valued at $10,000,000.

The women, owners of the Ballarat mining corporation are Mrs. Orphal Hart, Mrs. Mary A. Thompson and Miss Harriet Thompson. They told Federal Judge George Cosgrove that on three occasions armed men stopped assessment work by threats and interference. A temporary restraining order in favor of the women was issued after they told their story.

It was said that 30 men originally went to the extensive property to make the assessment but were driven off the claims. The same treatment was given a second party and on the third attempt a single investigator, sent to find out what trouble existed, was captured and thrown into jail.

Attorneys for the owners declared that a large mining company with world wide interests was attempting to jump the claims by preventing the owners from complying with necessary arressment regulations.

Deputy United States Marshal Martin Finn and his party probably will reach the canyon where the asserted claim jumpers have headquarters late tonight or early Friday, it was said.

If he ever becomes a presidential candidate, Morrow can run as a wet in the wet states and as Lindbergh's father-in-law in the dry ones.

The Southern Methodists elected four new bishops. It is to be presumed that they were given the most dependable manuals on investments.

RADOX BRING FOOT COMFORT TO AMERICA

Nothing Like It Ever Sold By Druggists Before

Corns--Callouses---Burning Feet

Now you can buy Radox in America at any up to date drug store. La Moine Drug Co. is selling dozens of packages a day.

Three or four baths according to directions and your corns and callouses are gone, your tired, burning, aching feet are changed to strong vigorous ones and bear this in mind:

If Radox doesn't do as advertised—money back.

Getting a corn out needs only a few Radox footbaths. In the last few years millions of packets of Radox have been sold to corn sufferers. Here is a typical letter:—

"My wife had a very bad corn for several years on the ball of the foot, and four smaller ones on the toes, also hard skin which was very painful. After a few soakings in a Radox footbath the hard skin began to peel off, and the corns came right out after a week. It is a pleasure for her to walk now." E. S.

1st November, 1929.

Radox contains four different Salts. One banishes odor, one is antiseptic, one soften the water, and one releases oxygn which carries the softening salts right to the roots of corns which are thus loosened so that they can be lifted out bodily. Only Radox contains this fourfold combination.

TREATY FOES HURL NEW DEFY

WASHINGTON, July 17.—UP—The heavy club of cloture debate—restriction was held over the little band of naval treaty opponents in the senate today.

Undaunted, they defied the administration leaders, proposed a startling series of reservations and fought against a plan to force early action on the treaty by holding night sessions.

In the end, the cloture threat was held in abeyance. A petition for restriction of debate with 23 signatures, far more than the 16 necessary was not offered. Due to the two day interval which might elapse before a cloture vote can be taken this delays the debate limitation at least until Monday and indicates that adminstration leader Watson may have trouble setting off the opponents by this means.

A two-thirds vote is required for cloture. Hope for a final vote next week is still held with the administration mustering far over the necessary two-thirds for ratification.

FLINT LEAVES MONEY TO CHARITY

LOS ANGELES, Jul y17.—A major portion of the estate of Motley H. Flint, who was slain in a superior court here last Monday, was left to charity, it was revealed here today when the will was filed for probate.

Of the financier's huge fortune he left $50,000 in a trsut fund to his relatives and $25,000 in cash to a niece, Mrs. Helen S. McKay, Jr.

To his widow, he left $50,000 in addition to the $150,000 property settlement they made at the time they separated.

Two trust funds were set aside especially for the poor children of Los Angeles.

The first fund of $50,000 is a trust in perpetuity to the poor children of Los Angeles, "to provide for their happiness" and to give summer outings to children who cannot afford them.

In the second fund of $50,000 Flint asks that the money be used to purchase Christmas chest toys to be distributed to poor children on Christmas eve.

The residue of the estate is left for assistance of worthy old men and old women who are helpless and cannot find employment.

DEAD AVIATOR BROUGHT HOME BY PLANE

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (UP)—An airplane bearing the body of Maurice Graham, pioneer air pilot arrived here tonight at 10:30 p. m. from Cedar City, Utah, near where Graham died last January after his airmail plane was wrecked.

Western Air Express announced tonight that the body of Graham was flown from Cedar City, Utah, by Jimmie James and Fred Kelly, No. 1

Graham, a distinguished World war aviator, left Los Angeles last January 9, for Salt Lake City, on his regular mail run. Late that night he refueled in a raging snowstorm and took off into the teeth of a blizzard for the last lap of his trip.

Search Starts

When Graham failed to arrive on schedule a gigantic search was started through the mountainous districts of Nevada and Utah. Three weeks ago two sheepherders found the wrecked plane with the mail intact.

There was evidence that Graham had been slightly injured but had started to plow through the snow drifts in an effort to reach civilization.

The body of the flier was found last night by Major Richard McDonald, a relative of Mrs. Graham's, who had been leading the search for several months.

Exposure Brings Death

Graham was dressed in the heavy flying suit he wore when he left his wrecked airplane on a mountainside after locking up the mail.

Death was attributed to exposure. The aviator evidently had been progressing along a tiny creek in the direction of Zion National Park when his weakness overcame him. He fell with his revolver clasped in one hand and a knife in the other. An unopened can of tomatoes and other provisions were found near the body.

Mrs. Graham, whose marriage to the aviator was the result of a war romance in France, was overcome when she was informed of her husband's death by friends in the air mail service. For months, Mrs. Graham, living in Hollywood with her small son and daughter, maintained that Maury somehow reached safety and was alive—perhaps suffering loss of memory.

Graham, although only 32 years old at the time of his death, was one of the leading pilots during the war. He enlisted at San Diego, Calif., and served on the French front.

Chiropractors Of Richmond At State Meeting

The conference of state chiropractors, called by the state board in Sacramento, is being attended from Richmond by Dr. W. Clark. Dr. W. J. Long is leaving today to attend the Friday and Saturday sessions.

To perfect a single state organization is one of the objects of the conclave and another is to discuss a forthcoming amendment to the constitution in which it is proposed to add obstetrics to the course and increase the length of chiropractic training.

Pool Room Here Sold To Anderson

A sale of considerable interest to Richmond residents was transacted in the offices of George Lee, financial broker yesterday, when John McPherson sold his billiard parlor at 316 Sixth street to Ben Anderson, local business man.

Anderson is well known locally, having been in business here for some time. In 1919 he opened the candy store, now known as the Fernery, running it until 1922 when he bought the cigar store adjoining. This he maintained for some time, before taking a position with the state.

DELEGATES ON WAY TO TRADE CONFERENCE

SACRAMENTO, July 17—Many delegates to the Pan-American Reciprocal Trade conference here are now on the high seas bound for the sessions to be held August 25 to 30 inclusive.

Because of the time required to make the trip from South America it has been necessary for some of those from the extreme southern countries to make an early start to be in Los Angeles by August for the start of the state tour preceding the conference.

Those from Argentina and neighboring countries will arrive by way of New York. In that metropolis they will be greeted by Mayor "Jimmy" Walker and entertained by the New York Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

Those from Mexico and countries on the northwestern coast of South America will arrive via special train which will be made up in Mexico City with Los Angeles its destination.

In Los Angeles preparations have been completed for receiving and registering the delegates preparatory to the state tour which will take them through the rich industrial and agricultural centers of the southern section of the state.

During this tour they will be honored guests in many communities and given an opportunity to view the vast resources of California.

Side trips to various localities in northern California will be made immediately following the sessions of the conference here.

Dr. Bishop Talks At Club Meeting

Dr. C. O. Bishop was the principal speaker at a meeting of the 20-30 club at the Hotel Carquinez yesterday. Dr. Bishop gave an interesting account of his travels through South America.

Judge Studies Suit Against Zane Grey

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—UP—A United States judge tonight had under advisement a case in which he must decide whether Zane Grey's inspiration for his novel, "Thundering Herd" came from association with famous plainsmen of the west or was pirated from the works of a pioneer western author, now dead.

Grey, during testimony in court, claimed he was inspired to write the book through years of comradeship with Buffalo hunters, notably Buffalo Jones.

Charles E. Maddux, who sued Grey for $500,000, alleged the author lifted the material from a book written years ago by John R. Cook, whose widow assigned the rights of "The Border and the Buffalo."

Four Inquests Set For Today

Four inquests will be conducted by County Coroner Aubrey Wilson today, two in Pittsburg this morning and two in Antioch this afternoon.

At Pittsburg inquests will be made into the deaths of Fred Babler, 24, who was drowned in a fire plunge from a dredger on which he was employed, and Edward John Fuller, 49, who succumbed to a heart attack while asleep recently.

At Antioch the deaths of Harold R. Davis and Eugene Dare will be investigated. Davis, 21, was instantly killed when his automobile collided head on with a machine driven by L. J. Holmes of Clarksburg, July 12.

Dare, 17-year old Filipino boy drowned while wading at Antioch bridge.

There's a new and easy way to gain in energy, vigor, ambition and health.

And at the same time lose the fat you don't need and don't want.

Take a generous half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot water — don't miss a morning, but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

A jar that will last you a month costs but 85c at LaMoine Drug Co., or any drugstore anywhere in the world.

When the jar is empty get on the scales and see how many pounds you have lost — after that you'll tell your friends that Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat man's money.

After you have had your daily supply of Kruschen every morning for a couple of weeks, you'll get what is known in Great Britain as "that Kruschen feeling."

The urge for activity will fill your entire being — you'll not be content to sit in the old arm chair after your day's work is done.

You'll feel the spirit of youth within you — what a joyous feeling — you'll want to take long walks, play games and your work will cease to be a hardship — it will become a pleasure.

Your old time ambition will return — you'll arise early filled with the joy of living—no grumbling at the breakfast table—your keen appetite will cause you to relish everything that's put before you.

For Kruschen Salts — not one salt mind you — but the six vital salts that Nature says your body must have if your life is to be a happy, healthy one.

Kruschen Salts will help you to lose fat—it keeps your kidneys, liver and stomach in such good shape that they perform their functions properly, keeping the system free from poisonous waste. Its tonic influence reaches every organ, gland and fibre in the body, bringing good health to all who put their faith in it.

WHILE YOU'RE AWAY THIS SUMMER

Danger of loss by fire or theft is constantly present. The hazard increases when you leave your home for vacation trips and fail to take precautions for the safety of silverware, jewelry and other valuables.

Our modern safe deposit vault can be used to eliminate all risk of this nature, and in addition, brings this service direct into your own neighborhood. The expense of a box for jewelry and papers, or the use of our storage room for larger articles, is very reasonable.

We invite you to take advantage of these convenient facilities so that vacation pleasures will not be marred by worry over what might happen to unprotected valuables at home.
